Sir;

Subject: Revised Mandatory Guidelines FR DOCKET 04-7984

I have had Paruresis for many years. It is NOT a refusal to urinate. It is instead an inability either to urinate, or to be able to START to urinate, generally in a public restroom, when there are others present.

These new government regulations are unfair and discriminatory towards people with paruresis. Because while you are allowing alternative testing (hair, saliva, patch), you are requiring these tests in addition to urine!

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Mahany
